ARTS & CULTURE

FRIDAY from 5-7pm • March 3
Exhibit Opening: Rythym and Color
the Art of Eva Leong

Through her unique style of painting, Eva combines the rhythm of Chinese brushstrokes with the colors of Western influence in her current series of scroll paintings representing countries Eva has recently visited. Born and raised in Shanghai, China, Eva Leong has lived and worked in Stonington for the past 25 years. Evidence of her early training in Chinese philosophy and traditional watercolor painting blends beautifully with the western oil painting techniques she learned while a student at the Art Students League and Parsons School of Design in New York.

Opening reception Friday, March 3, 5-7pm.
Exhibit will run through the end of March.

Suggested donation $5.

MUSIC

SATURDAY at 5PM • March 4
Music Matters Concert: The Art of Counterpoint
featuring Kleine Kammermusik

Geoffrey Burgess & Meg Owens, oboes & recorders
Stephanie Corwin, bassoon
Rebecca Humphrey, violoncello
Leon Schelhase, harpsichord

Kleine Kammermusik brings us woodwind chamber gems from two great High Baroque figures: Bach and Zelenka. The masters knew and admired one another, and they worked in close proximity, in Leipzig and nearby Dresden. Their highly distinctive personalities and consummate mastery are famed for their legacy of profound counterpoint, but also for brilliant melody, deft harmonic interplay, and unparalleled musical drama.

Won't you join us to hear superb woodwind masterworks of the Baroque, as played by this wonderfully expressive quintet?

Suggested donation $10.
